Organization and Administration

The mission of the 92nd Bombardment Group (VH), which is comprised of Headquarters and the 325th, 326th, and 327th Bombardment Squadrons, is to place the maximum number of tons of bombs with the maximum accuracy on the assigned targets. At the present time, this Group is equipped with B-29 type aircraft.

To accomplish this mission, the Group's objective is to be equipped, manned, trained, and administered to such a high degree of efficiency and state of readiness that it can be committed to any overseas base at any time as an effective combat team. It is the Group's objective to place emphasis on discipline, ground and aerial training, engineering maintenance, combat and counter-intelligence, and administration.

The manning of the Group had been following an increased tempo during the first part of October. The Station Manning Control Board, under the direction of Major L. F. McCaffery, Group Adjutant, received reports from the various stations of the 15th Air Force which indicated that the manning of the Group would be accomplished some time during the middle of October. However, manning was held up due to the forced separation of approximately 30% of the officer personnel, in line with the current Army reduction-in-force program. However, insofar as was possible, the 92nd Bombardment Group was completely manned on 18 October 1946.

On 27 September 1946, a directive was received from Headquarters

Strategic Air Command outlining the movement orders for the 92nd Bomb Group.[1] A permanent change of station was to be effected by 25 October 1946, whereby the 92nd Bomb Group, less personnel and equipment, was to proceed to Smoky Hill Army Air Field, Salina, Kansas.

Special Orders from Station Headquarters ordered the Group and its allied units to Smoky Hill Army Air Field 22 October 1946,[2] reporting thereat not later than 25 October 1946. Orders followed transferring the personnel of the 92nd Bomb Group and allied units to the newly activated 7th Bomb Group 25 October 1946.[3]

A movement of the mess halls was made to facilitate the more efficient meesing of the troops. The Headquarters and the 325th Bomb Squadron Mess was moved to a new location, since the 58th Bombardment Wing (VH) is to take over the area that the two units are housed in at the present time. The Supervisor of Foods has reported that each of the mess halls that the Bomb Group maintains will mess about four hundred men per meal.

A stencil was cut and copies made of "Instructions to Incoming Personnel" with a "Forward" by the Commanding Officer of the 326th Bomb Squadron and Staff. It is a guide to incoming personnel to insure proper processing into this organization and also to present other information for their guidance.

The preventative VD program is being augmented by the Group through the use of films, posters, lectures, and extreme availability of prevention equipment. An Enlisted Men's VD Council was appointed, and whose purpose will be to offer suggestions and ideas to the Squadron Commanders, an aid that is to help prevent VD.

A squadron improvement program has begun during October. The plans are to do away with the old board walks through the areas and replace them with gravel walks. The Air Installation Officer is furnishing the materials and the labor will be accomplished by the squadron details. The new walks will not only improve the appearance of the areas, but also will be more satisfactory during wet weather. By using gravel instead of making cement walks, tremendous amounts of labor, not counting cash also involved, will be saved, and will not make a great amount of difference in appearance.

Personnel

Quite a few changes in Key Personnel took place in the 92nd Bomb Group during October. In the 325th Bomb Squadron, Lt. Colonel Willard W. Wilson was assigned as Squadron Commander, relieving Lt. Colonel Robert D. Grandmontagne.[4/] Captain John Priggins replaced Captain

Robert B. Brewer as Squadron Adjutant.[5] Lt. Colonel James H. Thompson replaced Lt. Colonel Lloyd D. Chapman as Commanding Officer of the 327th Bomb Squadron.[6]

Key Personnel of the 92nd Bomb Group as of the 25th of October were as follows:

Group Commander	Colonel John G. Eriksen
Group Adjutant	Major Lawrence F. McCaffery
Group Operations Officer	Lt. Col. Robert F. Stafford
Commanding Officer 325th Bomb Sqdn.	Lt. Col. Willard W. Wilson
Commanding Officer 326th Bomb Sqdn.	Lt. Col. Richard T. Hernlund
Commanding Officer 327th Bomb Sqdn.	Lt. Col. James H. Thompson

Strength reports of the 92nd Bomb Group as of the 25th of October were as follows:

	Authorized	Assigned
Officers	331	238
Enlisted Men	2463	1736

There is an appreciable shortage of maintenance personnel within the Bomb Group that are assigned in their primary MOS. Men who hold related MOS's have been assigned On-the-Job-Training (OJT) in the MOS's that the Group is short. For instance, a man holding an MOS of 747 could learn, through proper training, the duties of a 684, 686, or 750, to help relieve the shortage of these critical MOS's.

There has been no morale equipment or provisions made for the personnel within the Group since it was activated, although an officer has been assigned a primary duty as Special Services Officer. There have been numerous complaints regarding this situation.

On 15 October 1946, a TWX was received from Headquarters, 15th Air Force pertaining to the reduction in force of officer personnel of the Army Air Forces.1/ Due to budgetary limitations, the officer personnel of the Army Air Forces were to be reduced approximately 30%. Pursuant to instructions in this TWX, a report was compiled listing every officer of this command. This report consisted of an efficiency rating as of 15 October 1946, the efficiency rating as of 31 December 1945, as of 30 June 1946, and an efficiency rating index recomputed to date. This involved a meeting of all of the Staff and the Commanding Officer in order that the report would leave the station on time. It entailed rating every officer in the Group and on the station to bring him up to date on his efficiency rating. The report was sent to A-1, 15th Air Force, and a few days later the Station S-1 flew to Headquarters, 15th Air Forde for a conference and to bring the list back with him. The forced separations were pretty hard to take in some of the sections, however, with a little more work on the remainder of the personnel, the situation will be eased in s short time. At the same time that the forced separation program was to be put into effect, it was decided that the officers would be separated here at Fort Worth Army Air Field, and Station S-1 was given the project of setting up a separation center. The forced separation had to be accomplished by 15 November 1946, so Lt. Colonel Chapman was assigned as Project Officer to get "the ball rolling".

Colonel Eriksen's study of the status of morale in the Group and the station in general was completed shortly after 1 October, and from all indications there has been a tremendous improvement. The greatest complaints were drill, physical training, laundry facilities, and various FWAAFld Regulations that would not delegate proper authority to the Squadron Commanders. Drill was abolished for the time being. An extensive physical training program was in the process of being organized when orders from Headquarters, 15th Air Force changed that program by stating that physical training was to be discontinued pending Army Air Forces policy regarding physical training. A list of FWAAFld Regulations that were considered objectionable were submitted to Colonel Eriksen for review, with the idea in mind to either revoke or revise the regulations. Thorough study was made, and the final outcome was that most of the regulations were revised or discontinued entirely. It is believed that all matters of this kind have been disposed of; however, there is still an occasional Memorandum or Regulation called to the attention of the Commanding Officer as being objectionable or undesirable.

A TWX was received from Headquarters, 15th Air Force directing every enlisted man be certified in his primary MOS.[8] Personnel Classification and Assignment Interview Sheets were mimeographed for the accomplishment of this task. A board of eight officers was appointed to do the interviewing, two officers per interviewing team.[9] The first plan that was tried was to have the teams interview the enlisted men in the sections where they work. On 3 October approximately 75 men were interviewed, and on 4 October approximately 25 men were interviewed. At the time, it was estimated that one hundred men could be interviewed per day, but due to the number of interviewing teams and frequent interuptions necessitated by other duties of the members of the teams, this schedule could not be met. On 10 October, plans were made for initial phase of this project to be conducted by the Section Heads. A letter of instructions was mimeographed and given to the Section Heads at Orientation, with an explanation of the situation. Section Heads were notified at the same time that a supply of Personnel Classification and Assignment

Interview Sheets could be obtained at Publications. After completion of forms at Sections. forms were sent to the Classification Section and checked to ascertain that each section had completed the form. Forms were then arranged by squadron in alphabetical order to speed interviewing at squadrons. On 14 October final phase of project was begun. Interview teams were to consist of four members of the board and each team was to interview two squadrons per day, one at 0800 hours and the other at 1300 hours. Squadrons were notified in advance which day and at what hour their men must be present for interview. In this manner the interview proceeded satisfactorily. Work was completed in all squadrons by 16 October. Forms were returned to Classification and each form checked against the WD AGO Form 20 of each enlisted man concerned for correctness of section number, name, rank, serial number, primary MOS, and duty SSN. Forms 20 were then stamped with certification in Primary MOS in Item 28. At the same time, the alphabetical locator cards were stamped so that it could be determined the enlisted man needing dertification after all forms were checked against the Forms 20. After completion of stamping, certification in Item 28 of Forms 20 was signed by the Classification Officer and assistant. Action was taken to reclassify all enlisted men where they were recommended or if they were not qualified to hold the primary MOS. After all forms were completely checked, Squadron Custodians made lists of enlisted men whose forms were not submitted and lists submitted to squadrons concerned with recommendation to take necessary action to certify these men in their primary MOS.

Supply and Equipment

Normal monthly supply requisitions for expendable property were turned in for action and no shortages in requisitioned articles were noted.

A small requisition of B-4 bags was received from Air Corps Supply by the 327th Bomb Squadron.

Transfer of squadron areas caused a temporary hardship for the individual squadron supplies, but, as soon as the new locations were straightened out, operation of the supplies continued smoothly.

Too much time has been required in the past in processing Forms 81 through Air Corps Supply. As much as a day and a half have been wasted from the time the Form 81 was submitted and the time the Not-In-Stock (NIS), or the part requisitioned, was reeeived.

It has come to the attention of the Squadron Supply Officers that, in numerouse instances, when enlisted men are transferred from one organization to another on this station, the Individual Clothing and Equipment Form #32 is either given to the enlisted man unsealed, or sent through regular distribution channels by "buck slips", also unsealed, for delivery to the receiving organization. This is not considered a good policy. In several instances, the Form #32 did not reach the receiving organization, although the shipping organization stated that the form was forwarded. Such a method of transmittal also makes it possible for the forms to be altered after they leave the shipping organization and before they reach the receiving organization. These forms are now being placed in sealed envelopes and transmitted to the receiving organizations by messenger or through distribution channels.

Maintenance

A big item in maintneance which is expected to boost the efficiency of flight line and maintenance personnel is the proposed change to individual squadron type maintenance. The men seem to feel that they can do better work when assigned to one aircraft rather than a different one each day, as has been the case during the "reign" of the modified Production Line Maintenance (PLM). The work and flying assignments can better be allocated under the squadron maintenance system, whereby each squadron is assigned a definite number of aircraft for their own use and the personnel are assigned as maintenance or flight crews to a specific plane. One certain result is the increased personal pride when a man is on only one plane.

An outstanding hardship being encountered, with no relief in sight in the near future, is the difficulties of maintenance with the use of present hangars. All but two of the eight hangars on this station are of an inadequate size to accomodate B-29 aircraft, as the hangars were originally built for B-24's. The only way that the small hangars can be put to use is by hauling the aircraft to the hangar doors, and then only the front part of the engine nacelles will fit inside. During the approaching cold weather, there will be not way that warmth can be supplied the men working on the engines, and by having the hanger doors open, even the inside of the building will be as cold as the outside. Due to this unavoidable discomfort, the quality of work will natuarally suffer. Because of the lack of hangars, most of the maintenance work, including engine change is done out on the ramp, where not protection whatsoever is provided for the maintenance personnel.

Training

Normal operational, flying training continued through October for the Bomb Group, with Link and synthetic gunnery training going on under an expanding program, to make the training more extensive and complete. Weather during October was not of the best, with rain keeping crews on the ground more than usual.

The Group's OJT program is showing excellent results, and personnel, through this type of training, are able to fill existing vacancies in critical MOS's. Previously, when specialists were needed and none were available, work had to be left undone, or done in the best possible way by the inexperienced personnel being forced to do jobs normally delegated to the specialists in that particular field. With the OJT program, personnel already qualified in one job of a "Family Group" of MOS's (684, 747, 750, 685, etc.) can be trained to fill in as a qualified specialist in any one of the others. When the Bomb Group receives its orders for overseas shipment, this training will stand them in good stead by having sufficient trained personnel for the varied types of jobs found in maintenance, gunnery, and other types of work.

Orientation and Pysical Training were continuing on schedule, with greater interest added to the orientation periods by having qualified speakers and more informational periods, using subjects in which the majority of the personnel on the station are personally interested. There have been representatives from various sections of the station, including Classification, Personal Affairs, and the Information and Education Office. These speakers conducted more or less informal periods, with questions by the audience welcomed. Many rather cloudy issues have been cleared up, to the obviouse satisfaction of all concerned.

In the past, considerable difficulty has been encountered in recording attendance for the various ground schools that the S-3 Section conducts. In that there is no authorized complement of instructor personnel on this station, and due to the fact that flying personnel from the Bomb Group must also work in administrative and maintenance jobs on the station, a considerable amount of clerical work is involved in accounting for all personnel who are to attend ground schools.

Also, personnel are transferred in and out of the Bomb Group and between the squadrons so frequently that it is exceedingly difficult to know definitely just who is supposed to be in attendance for the classes. To combat this situation, a system has been devised whereby the Director of Training and the S-3 Statistical Section keep a record of all transfers, changes in duty status, leaves, furloughs, temporary duty, and other factors which might affect the attendance at ground school. Each squadron in the Bomb Group is divided into two flights, "A" and "B". On one day, "A" flight will be scheduled to fly while "B" flight attends grounds school. On the following day the flights alternate. Each Friday, a roster incorporating all changes that have occurred during the week in the crews is made up by the S-3 Statistical Section. A separate roster is made up for each MOS in each flight. For example, all MOS 2756, Radio Operators, in "A" flight are shown on one roster; all radio operators in "B" flight are shown on another roster. Men who are on temporary duty, furlough, excused from duty that day, etc., are deleted from the roster with appropriate explanations. The roster for each MOS and for each flight is placed in a binder and ditributed on each Monday morning to the officer in charge of the ground school which each MOS will attend for the week. When class convenes, roll is taken, and those present and absent are indicated on the roster. The number of hours instruction for the period is also entered. After the period, the instructor, or officer in charge of the school phones the unathorized absentees to the S-3 Statistical Section which in turn contacts the Squadron Operations Officer to find if there is any reason why the man in question is absent. If the absentee does not have a legitimate excuse for being absent, a letter is sent to his Squadron Commander so that disciplinary action may be taken against the individual. A reply be indorsement is required from the Squadron Commander as to why the individual was not in ground school. Insofar as possible, the same lecture is given two concurrent days. For example; gunners in "A" flight might have a lecture on harmonization of guns on Monday, and the same lecture is given to the gunners of "B" flight on Tuesday. If, for some reason, members of "A" flight cannot attend the lecture on Monday, they may atten the same lecture with "B" flight on Tuesday, providing that they are not flying. In this way, the experience level of the class is kept on a very even plane without necessity of frequent make-up classes. At the end of each week, the attendance rosters are returned to S-3 Statistical Control, where the total time for the week is entered on a 15th Air Force Form #335, "Technical Training Subject Progress Log", to keep a running total of the time that the individual crew member has attended each ground school. The Form #335 is also used to show which days specific members were absent from ground school in order that make-up lectures may be scheduled at the completion of the course.

Medical Section

The mission of the Medical Section of the 92nd Bomb Group is to maintain the health of all elements of the command by preventative medicine, immunization, education, sanitary measures, to train medical department personnel in the duties involved in the care of battle or occupational casualties; to train all personnel of the Group in elementary first aid, sanitation and personal hygiene; and to train crew members in such elements in advanced first aid as will enable them to properly treat injured personnel in aircraft prior to return to the ground.

During the month of October, the following services were rendered by the Medical Section: fifteen immunizations were given, forty-seven physical examinations were given, and the regular daily, weekly, and monthly reports were submitted to higher echelons.
